

7. Erlanger-Münchener Probability Day

This year's Probability Day takes place on Friday, November 30, 2007

in the big lecture room of the Department Mathematik, Bismarckstraße 1 1/2 in Erlangen.

Program

The scientific program consists of the following talks:

- 14.15-
15.15 Dr. Malwina Luczak (LSE London)
Mixing time for the mean field Ising model: cutoff at high temperature, exponent 3/2 at criticality, and metastability at low temperature
- 15.30-
16.30 Prof. Dr. Zhan Shi (Universités Paris VI et VII - CNRS - FDR Mathématiques Paris Centre)
Random walk and tree
- 17.00-
18.00 Prof. Dr. Robert Griffith (Univ. of Oxford)
Diffusion processes and coalescent trees

Following the scientific program we will meet at a restaurant in Erlangen for further discussions.

We would be pleased to assist guests who want to stay overnight with the reservation of hotel accomodation.

We are looking forward to seeing you soon.
